Table Lamp 3232-K-2

The Viennese Baroque Family

This small table lamp is made from wrought iron with a leaf gold finish. The metal parts are hammered flat from round bars. This gives the elements a lovely soft demure which is typical for this style. The frame is then decorated with rosettes from crystal and hung with pendants. The central column is from exquisitely cut crystal as used also for larger chandeliers.

The table lamp is a wonderful addition to a baroque ensemble or a single centre piece highlight for other compositions. The long candles give this small fixture a very elegant composure and enhances its overall expression.
