

1823

Chandelier 5058-6 "Wiener Grüst'l"

The Biedermeier Family

The typical chandelier of the Biedermeier, the "Wiener Grüst'l", has its cradle in our workshops in Salesianergasse back in the 1830ies. A framework from carefully decorated sheet brass is garlanded with gentle strands of crystal. The brass is either highly polished and lacquered or allowed to darken with time.

Typical for the period the chandelier has a very modest composure but still emanates an elevated atmosphere as other more elaborate "bag and tent" chandeliers from the same period.

As with originals, the electrical wires are hardly but still visible atop the arms.

Design: Zahn, circa 1835; Biedermeier

Material: Brass, lead-free crystal; Finish: Polished

Special requests: Other finishes

Dia.: 78 cm, H.: 105 cm; Weight: 8 kg

Lights: 6 candles; Max. Wattage: 360 W

LOBMEYR