Chandelier 42721-9 "Script"

The Contemporary Family

Script is a line of lights inspired by the Viennese Art Deco. Sperlein breaks up the common theme of brass pipes and white balls by giving it a new twist, or better still: a new bend.

The concept of the design allows for many different applications. Starting from a 3-arm chandelier it features table- and floor lamps as well as wall brackets. The chandelier can be made with any number of arms or spun into a room-spanning installation with countless lighting units.

Each lighting unit is an LED-element that can be controlled and dimmed via DALI or with a mobile app via Bluetooth.

The fixtures are made of bent brass bars with mouth-blown crystal domes with a frosted inside. Beside the typical gold finish the frame elements can be made in any finish to round up the versatility of the concept.
