Here, we can certainly take good design literally, as shown by this artefact designed by Ted Muehling. For small treasures that we don't like to let out of our sight, in 2009 the multi award-winning American designer created the perfect sanctuary, namely this seven-centimetre-high porcelain box. Almost symbolically, the hand-painted eye watches over the treasures hidden within the porcelain trinket box. And whatever they may be is up to the lucky collector.
