In times of visual sensory overload, the greatest luxury is often concealed: Knowing which splendour and craftsmanship is to be found in an object, without it being immediately visible to everyone at first glance. The British product designer Khashayar Naimanan is a master of concealment. He designed two works at the same time for the Nymphenburg manufactory – Hidden Wealth and Arkanum. In the case of both designs he has had the magnificent, hand-painted flower decors placed on the bottom side of each porcelain piece. Thus, it is mainly their owners who will be treated to the pleasure of masterly treasures.
